Broadway Star Picked For 'Lion'

Broadway star Alan Alda has been signed to portray author-anti-hero-actor-George Plimpton in the motion picture version of Plimpton's well-known best-seller, "Paper Lion."

At a celebratory party marking the first anniversary of the publication of "Paper Lion," Plimpton introduced the tall, slim actor as his cinematic alter ego.

Among the guests were members of the Detroit Lions Football Team, who will portray themselves in the film which will increase many of the episodes described by Plimpton in his book.

"Paper Lion" will mark Alda's debut on the grand stage of the Detroit Lions in pre-season training during the summer of 1968.

The motion picture scheduled to start shooting in February, will be directed by Aram Avakian.

Six-foot, two-and-a-half-inch tall, Alda is the younger son of a famous actor, recently triumphed on Broadway in "The Apple Tree" with Barbara Harris.
