

Hammond, Summerdog, Van Zandt On Tap At Cowboy Bar This Week

If you miss any of the top blues musicians that will be in town this weekend either at the Park City Ski Resort or at Parkwest you still have a chance to see some of them at the Cowboy Bar.

Manager Mickey James said they're opening their blues series with the Charlie Musslewhite Blues Band on July 22 and 23 to be followed by blues singer John Hammond on July 25 (he'll come over following his Parkwest concert) with songwriter/guitarist Townes Van Zandt appearing July 28.

Summerdog will appear in-between the blues acts on July 24 and 26. All shows will start at 9 p.m.

James is expecting great things from these series of appearances. He said,

"many people don't know Van Zandt by name but he's written top songs for a number of people including Emmy Lou Harris. He's well known and respected for his songwriting talent."

Hammond, on the other hand, is a well known blues singer who has been on the road for 18 years. He's recorded sixteen albums and is known for his performance on the motion picture sound track, "Little Big Man."

James said Hammond's appearance at the Cowboy Bar offers Parkites a chance to get a close look at Hammond's personal style.

Tickets for most of the performances range from $5 to $6 at the door but you can save a dollar by buying them in advance.

Representing the new breed of "true blues" - John Hammond joins artists at Parkwest on July 25 then moves to the Cowboy Bar later that night.
